

Save Your Neighborhood: And Yourself with WAHM

This is the 1st in a 3 book series written by James T. Webb, a master builder who built mansions and churches but then returned (a second time) to try and rebuild blighted and condemned single family homes within Low Income African American Neighborhoods in the southern blacklined districts of Eastern N.C. While Americans wondered why there was so much violence and crime on the rise within Americas Low Income neighborhoods Webb had implemented The SOLUTION THEWAHM. This was as he created 1000s of jobs and rebuilt 100s of homes. Despite his successes however Webb became a problem for and a target of Americas largest Banks as he disproved their theory that there Was no value over There. Webb also installed new electrical, plumbing, hvac systems and totally renovated the homes using local residents. He SOLD 100s of the rebuilt homes for around $65,000 each. Webb made $25,000 per home for him and his investors. Unfortunately, Webb did not understand the power of what he later called (C4) a banking conspiracy where 49 members held a meeting in 2003 and promised in documented emails to each other and to an FBI Agent, to close Webb Down. For over 10 years they did not relent. Within this book while James T. Webb did not know all the plans they had to destroy his career and take his liberty by 2008, he knew something wrong and illegal was going on behind the tree. This book is a strategic guide to help those who want to rebuild poor communities and make millions of dollars against the odds. Follow Webbs journey as he navigates through the HOOD. This is a Builders Story.
